AMERICAN NERVE SAYED MEXICO GOLD

Bruno Newman's Quick Wit Foiled Attempt to Loot Nation's Reserve.

He that, unlike most Latin American repubrevolution, although Carransa tried to stepped out into the darkening street. take with him in his flight the gold that guarantees it. Incidentally, Carranga did take the remainder of Mexico's gold reserve, but the revolutionists recovered the greater part of it.

The hero of the story, which has reached here from Mexico City, is Bruno Newman, a figure unique in the business of Mexico City. He is a Harvard man who went to Mexico fifteen years ago and is now at the head of one of the best known exporting and importing houses of Mexico. Besides being a me aher of the board of directors of the American Chamber of Commerce of Mexto he is one of the executive committee of the Confed racion de Camaras de Comercio de los Estados Unidos Mexicanos, corresponding to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. He married into an ancient and aristocratic Mexican family, Merchants Ask to Guarantee Issue Early last year the Mexican Government found that speculators had bought up nearly all the Mexican silver money in circulation and sent it out of the country, because of the high price of silver. A new colnage issue containing less silver disappeared in six weeks. The Government announced its intention to issue paper money to replace the silver, and thereupon there was much pretest, because Mexico's previous experience of paper currency had been ample. In the emergency the Govern-ment asked the Confederacion de Camaras de Comercio to guarantee the issue. This the Confederacion agreed to do if the Government would let it have a committee in the mint to prevent overprint-ing and particularly if the Government would deposit daily in the vault of the Monetary Commission the gold to pro-tect that day's issue of paper and turn over the combination of the vault to one of the Confederacion's officers.

When the paper money was issued the Confederation not only guaranteed it, but its reliability to the business people, large and small, and in the hands of Biruno Newman was placed the combina-tion of the vault of the commission, where was kept nothing but the gold to guarantee the currency.

Newman Summoned by Telephone That was the situation when, on the evening of May 6 at 6 o'clock, a teleto the Monetary Commission office. He was ushered into the directors' room and found several men and a guard of solciers. Laborers were busy nailing up boxes and securing them with iron straps, and these boxes were filled with

After nearly a half hour the officials began to wonder why Newman took so long. When they discovered his trick they decided it was a bit too rough fear of the German police. Never could for Mexico to blow the safe and he stay more than twenty-four hours.

Statistics Show Gains Made by United States Were Not

Buenos Aires, June 5,—It is true that the United States gained the su-premacy of the import trade of Argen-tina during the war, surpassing Great Britain, but the United States has not, as has been contended by some British interests, taken this trade from the British while they were fighting the war, de-clares Dr. Julius Klein, United States Commercial Attache in Argentina.

He quotes Argentine statistics to show Germany. that very little of this expansion or Argentine trade with the United States has been at the expense of the British. On the other hand, he says, it has been wen from the Continental countries of Europe, especially Germany, or is en-tirely new business created by American

Dr. Klein has made an analytical emparison of the changes in the distribution of Argentine import trade dur-ing the war and since, which was published in the Standard, a British news-paper of Buenos Aires. The statistics show that during the first nine months of 1919 the United States supplied 37 per cent. of Argentina's imports, com-pared with 14 per cent. in 1913, while Great Britain's share had fallen from $1 per cent, to 21, and Germany's from 16 per cent, to zero.

at the cost of Great Britain." The United States gained at the expense of Continental exporters, particular Ger-many's, in cleaned rice, sugar, print paper, cotton prints, writing paper, dyed cotton cloth and cotton stockings, though there was some decrease shown latter item.

Clearly a new factor in the Argentine market, the commercial attache points out, is the American automobile trade. In 1913 France out of a total of 5,000 tinct turtles are rather common, but cars imported sent 1,800 and the United most of them consist of many small States 1,300, whereas in 1917 the total number imported had risen to 11,000 pieces, badly crushe virtually all of which came from the otherwise damaged.

Klein says, American exporters made some gains, but nowhere near enough to fill the deficiency left by the elimthation of the United Kingdom and

Gaston Chevrolet Wins Indianapolis Race

With Delco Ignition

TN a Monroe Special, designed by his brother Louis Chevrolet, Gaston Chevrolet won the 1920 Speedway Classic. At no time in the grill of almost six hours was the winning Monroe lower than fourth place.

Ten cars, from a field of twenty-three finished the 500 mile race—seven of the ten were equipped with Delco Ignition.

It will be a source of pride and satisfaction to the hundreds of thousands owning Delco-equipped cars throughout the world to know that the Delco on their cars has added another record to its list of ignition achievements.

Tommy Milton recently at Daytona broke all speed records up to five miles in a Duesenberg Twin-Eight with Delco Ignition at the speed of 156.04 miles per hour-nearly three miles per minute. Major Schroeder's altitude record at 36,020 feet was achieved with a Liberty Motor with Delco ignition. The NC-4 Trans-Atlantic flight, the Hudson Super-Six Trans-continental run and the Essex 50-hour grind are all records that owners of Delco-equipped cars are familiar with.

The Dayton Engineering Laboratories Company does not claim the credit for winning this latest race at the Indianapolis Speedway; it merely desires to inform the many users of Delco that another victory has been recorded with Delco ignition.
